

Art of War is now...

—FIELD of— GLORY

GREEK HOPLITES

ROMAN LEGIONNAIRES

ENGLISH ARCHERS

CRUSADING KNIGHTS

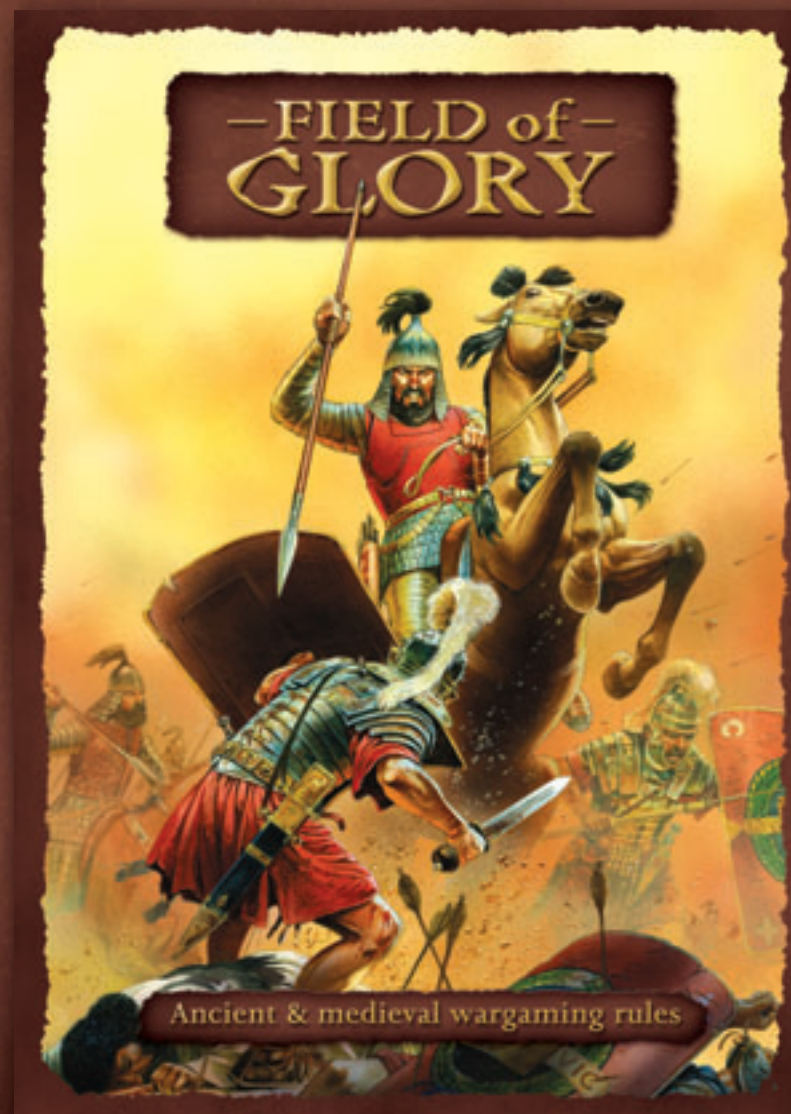

CELTIC WARRIORS

PARTHIAN CATAPHRACTS

VIKING BERSERKERS

JAPANESE SAMURAI

COMMAND THEM ALL.
UNTIL YOUR ENEMY IS DEFEATED...
...AND THE FIELD OF GLORY IS YOURS.

OSPREY PUBLISHING

THE DIE IS CAST

Work continues on Field of Glory, the new rules set for ancient and medieval tabletop wargaming, previously known as Art of War. The new title and original artwork from Peter Dennis more accurately reflects the range of exciting and accurate battle scenarios available for both new and experienced gamers alike.

Created by wargaming experts, Field of Glory includes a rules book detailing the gaming system, with photographs of miniatures, diagrams for definitive rules support, a painting guide and detailed Osprey artwork to bring the combat and combatants to life. Accompanying army lists expand the range of armies available to fight with, from Greek hoplites to medieval knights.

Field of Glory will provide a thrilling tabletop adventure for anyone interested in re-creating the desperate struggles of ancient and medieval civilisations on the battlefield.

The rules are now being extensively tested by an army of both experienced and novice game-players. Details are being tweaked, diagrams adjusted and miniatures painted. The cover artwork is being finalised and inside pages designed. It is happening. The only question is when...

FIELD OF GLORY WILL BE RELEASED IN FEBRUARY 2008.

Information on the latest developments, a new website and gaming demonstrations will be released as soon as we have them.

CRY 'HAVOC,' AND LET SLIP THE DOGS OF WAR